DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-25 and 34, drawn to gene expression cassettes, a method for transforming a plant, a method for obtaining a genetically modified plant, a genetically modified plant and a genetically modified seed, all comprising a gene expression cassette comprising one or more enzymes involved in biosynthesis of hemicelluloses, cellulose or uronic acids.

Group II, claims 26-28, drawn to wood and the use of wood.

Group III, claims 29-30, drawn to cellulose and the use of cellulose.

Group IV, claims 31-33, drawn to paper and the use of paper.

The groups of inventions listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

The Inventions are linked by the technical feature of plant transformed with a gene involved in cellulose, hemicellulose or uronic acid biosynthesis, however this feature is not special because it does not constitute an advancement over the prior art. Stalker et al (USPGPUB20020129401) teach a plant transformed with a cellulose synthase (EC: 2.4.1.1) (see claims 1, 2, 14-16 and 17-22, for example). Therefore the Inventions lack unity and restriction is therefore proper.

In addition to the above restriction requirement, Applicants are required to select ONE enzyme that best represents their invention. Applicants must select myo-inositol 1-phosphate synthase OR myo-inositol monophosphatase OR myo-inositol oxygenase OR beta-glucuronidase OR glucuronokinase OR glucuronyltransferase OR glucuronate-1-phosphate uridylyltransferase OR phosphoglucomutase OR UDP-glucose pyrophosphorylase OR UDP-glucose dehydrogenase OR UDP-D-glucuronate carboxylase OR 1,4-beta-D-xylan synthase OR cellulose synthase. As noted above, while the enzymes are related by the technical feature listed above, that feature is not special because it does not constitute an advancement over the prior art. In an effort to simplify the restriction requirement for clarity, the enzymes are not arrayed in separate groups above, however, each enzyme is deemed to be patentably distinct unless Applicants wish to state on the record that they are obvious variants of one another.

Applicants are reminded that nucleotide sequences encoding different proteins are structurally distinct chemical compounds and are unrelated to one another. These sequences are thus deemed to normally constitute independent and distinct inventions within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. 121. Absent evidence to the contrary, each such nucleotide sequence is presumed to represent an independent and distinct invention, subject to a restriction requirement pursuant to 35 U.S.C. 121 and 37 CFR 1.141 et seq.

This requirement is not to be construed as a requirement for an election of species, since each nucleotide and amino acid sequence is not a member of single genus of invention, but constitutes an independent and patentably distinct invention.

Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification;
- (b) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (c) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (d) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (e) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable upon the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
